Management and Leadership

INTRODUCTION

What makes some organizations capable of generating and sustaining high-velocity, unparalleled, relentless improvement and innovation? In Strategic Operations Management, you will learn what drives the success of the few companies that achieve exceptional levels of performance at all levels. This program will introduce the fundamental principles by which such acceleration occurs, give examples of those principles in practice, and provide an opportunity to test how those principles can be translated to the workplace. You will also explore the key methods of developing, sustaining, communicating and monitoring strategic insight in such a way that the organisation stays on an even keel and develops the dynamic contours needed for speed, agility and continuous improvement. Case studies will be used to accelerate retention of key principles and real-life company challenges will be resolved through deep-dive sessions and collaborative effort.

Research has shown that participants in this specific training end up on the fast track for higher responsibilities.

TAKEAWAYS

This program will enable you to:

- Create an organization where work is designed to achieve maximum impact
- Learn how to solve problems as they arise and develop an understanding that prevents the recurrence of those problems
- Multiply the impact of local discoveries by making them useful systemically throughout the organization
- Lead an organization where discovery is encouraged, supported, and promoted

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

- Senior leadership, whose understanding and support are vital in developing operational excellence within an organization
- Managers earmarked for higher responsibility within the organisation
- Internal Consultants and Technical Experts responsible for driving operations
- Entrepreneurs in any industry, especially in new and emerging fields

The customised nature of the training made it practical and specific to our organisation. We were able to achieve deep-dive and solve real-life organisational problems that would not have been possible otherwise. Every one left with renewed vigour and a set of solutions to immediately implement.
